OYSTERS.

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene
by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D.
Commissioner of Health.

Oysters furnished food for prehistoric man as demonstrated in the great Indian mounds of oyster and clam shells in which are found ancient implements of war and industries. Oysters have continued to be an article of food much sought after by man and beast. The oyster however, has become so high in price that on the basis of food values it cannot be listed as of economic importance.

Through its geographical range at home and abroad this bivalve has become fraught with danger from the sewage polluted waters which now reach many of the oyster beds from our large municipalities. The thickly populated communities are mostly along the streams owing to the fact that man has always settled near waterways and in the early days of our history the industries depended entirely upon water power for their mills. As these centers of population increased the disposal of waste became a great problem resulting in the building of conduits to lead it into the pure waters Nature had given us. These flowing streams carried the wastes away from the doors of one community only to poison the waters for those living down the stream and at the same time polluting the waters covering our oyster and clam beds as well as driving away from our streams valuable fish.

The raw oyster today is to be looked upon with suspicion. Great care should be observed in purchasing them. The seller should be known to be reliable and he should know from what beds he gets his supply.

It is hard to explain why the oyster furnishes a fashionable dish when it has become the custom to supply the culls, which a few years ago would have been thrown back into their beds as being unfit for the market. The food value of four or five of these culls is almost nil and the taste so insipid that they are flavored with strong condiments that entirely destroy what little natural flavor the culls had; therefore, it can hardly be said that these culls throw out from the cookable oysters from various beds, are palatable. They are, however, dangerous as they can and do sometimes carry the germs of typhoid fever.

Why, therefore, eat raw culls containing little or no nourishment little or no taste and yet not infrequently carrying germs of disease.

MANY DISORDERS ON THE BORDER

Mexicans Have Made Numerous Raids into United States Territory Recently.

AMERICANS QUITE PATIENT

But Soldiers Have Been Restive Under Restraint Imposed—They Have Been Provoked Often by the Sniping Sharpshooters.

Ever since the Mexican war there has been a disorder, more or less, along the international boundary line, which runs through sparsely settled country, lending itself well to the exploits of braves. Since 1910 raids by Mexicans into the land of the hated Gringos have been fairly numerous. Many Americans have been killed, although nothing approaching the scale of the present Columbus massacre is recorded.

Three hundred Mexicans on November 15, 1910, attacked Marathon and Rock Springs, Tex. Cowboys gathered to give battle and drove them back. At the same time sixty Mexicans made a foray toward Marfa, Tex., and looted many ranches. There were numerous raids during the next four years, but few men were involved and little damage was done. Not many of these incursions resulted in fights between Americans and the invaders.

During 1915 Mexican raiders became more daring and numerous. Despite the fact that American troops were stationed all along the border, the Mexicans slipped through the cordon and in some instances attacked United States soldiers. On August 6, 1915, Mexicans sacked Sebastian, Tex., 37 miles north of Brownsville, killed Albert Austrian and his wife and wounded their son.

Slaughtered Much Cattle.

Eight days later Mexicans in uniform crossed the border 15 miles west of Nogales, Ariz., and slaughtered many head of cattle. Cavalry and ranchers in automobiles went after the invaders, but failed to capture any. On the same day 80 men dashed into Texas at Laredo, looted several ranches and escaped after a fight with citizens.

On August 15, 20 Mexicans slipped into the United States at Mercedes, Tex. They were surrounded by armed Texans, and a squad of cavalry, losing several killed and wounding three Texans. Fifty United States soldiers and a score of Mexicans clashed at Progresso, Tex., on August 26, and the looters were repulsed.

On September 1 two Americans were captured and slain by Mexicans, who invaded the United States north of Brownsville. American soldiers attacked the band and killed one raider and wounded several others.

Three days later cowboys and ranchers fought off bandits near Eonial, Tex., and one American defender was slain. On the same day soldiers discovered a squad of Mexicans near Brownsville, killed one and drove the rest across the boundary. Mexicans in uniform fired across the border but hit nobody.

Mexicans Shot Soldier.

On November 24, 25 Mexicans crossed the border near Nogales, Ariz., and shot an American soldier before they were driven back.

There were also many individual clashes between Mexicans and Americans in border towns, while numerous Americans were killed in Mexico, the most extensive offense of the latter sort being the massacre of a score of American mining men near Chihuahua a few weeks ago.

The other instance in which United States troops entered Mexican territory in pursuit of Mexican soldiers took place near Brownsville recently. Several soldiers were bathing in the Rio Grande and two of them were kidnapped by Mexican soldiers. Companions of the captured men crossed the boundary, armed, in pursuit of the captors, but later returned, the Americans having been released. The commander of this invasion is held for trial by court-martial. Several American soldiers were drowned in attempting to swim the river.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC GOING UNDER.

The Toledo Blade calls attention to the fact that every few days there is recorded some new step in the ultimate extermination of the liquor traffic. It says: "A brewery or distillery goes out of business. A manufacturer of bar fixtures decides to manufacture something else. An industrial plant announces that teetotalers will have first choice when jobs are distributed or promotions made. Railroad companies tighten the application of the rule against drinking. The revenue from beer and whisky falls off and the secretary of the treasury looks for new sources of income. And so, week after week and month after month, the forces against liquor increase in numbers, the territory wherein liquor selling is profitable becomes more and more restricted."

FARM POULTRY

MIXTURE FOR LAYING FOWLS

Scatter Equal Parts of Cracked Corn, Wheat and Oats in Litter—Make Hens Exercise.

In order to obtain eggs it is necessary to have healthy, vigorous stock, properly fed.

A splendid mixture for laying hens is equal parts of cracked corn, wheat, and oats, which should be scattered in the litter.

Plenty of exercise increases the egg yield.

Provide four or five inches of good, clean litter in which to scatter the grain.

Cabbages, mangels, potatoes, sprouted oats, etc., make excellent green feed.

When wet mashers are fed be sure they are crumbly and not sticky.

For the first three days chicks may be fed a mixture of equal parts hard-boiled eggs and stale bread, or stale bread soaked in milk. When bread and milk are used, care should be exercised to squeeze all milk out of the bread. From the third or fourth day until the chicks can eat wheat and cracked corn, commercial chick feed is a good ration.

Plenty of pure, fresh water, grit, shell, and green feed should be available from the first day.

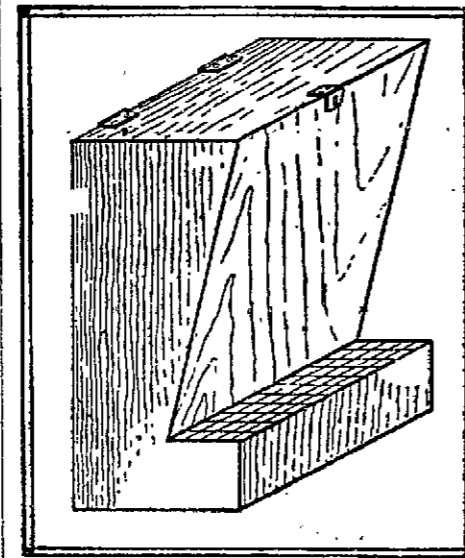

There is very little danger of over-feeding young stock.

Feed the chickens about five times daily and only what they will eat up clean in a few minutes, except at night, when they should receive all they want.

FEED HOPPER FOR CHICKENS

Device is Easily Constructed Out of Old Soap Box—Grain Supply Kept Properly Screened.

A feed hopper for chickens can easily be made by sawing the sides of a laundry soap box as indicated. A lid is fastened on the top by hinges, and the feed is poured in at the top. The front slants, which keeps the feed always sliding down as it is taken out of the opening. The opening is covered with chicken wire to keep the fowls from stepping into the feed and fouling it. The dotted lines show the original construction of the box.—Popular Science.

GOOD EGG-PRODUCTION HINTS

Presence of Male Bird Has No Influence on Number of Eggs Laid—Infertile Eggs Best.

Produce the infertile eggs. Infertile eggs are produced by hens having no male bird with them.

Removing the male bird has no influence on the number of eggs laid by hens.

The hen's greatest profit-producing period is the first and second years, and unless a hen is an exceptionally good breeder she should be disposed of at the end of her second laying season and before starting to molt.

Few eggs can be expected until the pullets are matured.

If possible, mark the pullets that lay in the fall, and use them in the breeding pen for the following spring.

Soft-shelled eggs are often caused by fowls being confined, becoming overfat, and from lack of mineral matter.

CHICKENS NEED GREEN FOOD

Cabbage Tied to Stake is Excellent—Long Stuff is Liable to Cause Trouble With Hens.

When green food is given to hens in confinement it should always be cut or chopped fine. A cabbage tied to a stake is excellent, but a variety is better.

White clover, red clover, lawn grass, tops of vegetables, or even young corn fodder, will be relished by the hens if chopped into short lengths so that they can easily eat it.

Long food sometimes causes the hens to become crop bound.

Grit is Necessary.

It is absolutely necessary to supply grit, in order to keep fowls healthy, as grit takes the place of teeth.

LIQUOR ADS BARRED.

About one-fourth of all the dailies in the country take no liquor ads.

ANTI-LIQUOR SENTIMENT.

In an article showing that "the greatest nations in Europe are against alcohol," the Philadelphia North American has this to say about Germany: "Is it not disconcerting to find that the great anti-alcohol movement which is sweeping Europe had its beginning in the land of the 14,000 breweries? A scientific pamphlet written in 1886 by Professor van Bunge, was the start of a campaign which has produced an anti-liquor congress in every advanced country on the continent, and a biennial international congress that draws delegates from nearly every considerable nation."

"The growth of sentiment against the evil has been almost incredible. In the year 1893 there was only one known total abstainer of prominence in the German empire, a noted Hamburg engineer. In 1897 a leading physician undertook to urge abstinence upon members of his profession, and after months of work found himself with a total of nine signatures; but ten years later 800 physicians had joined."

"It was a German university, that of Berlin, which first established a scientific course on the alcohol evil, in 1906. It was the German kaiser who a few years ago declared himself an abstainer, and enjoined the army and navy to follow his example. It is a noted German army physician who has declared: 'It must be considered incompatible with the honor of a city or government to allow the activities of poison factories, such as breweries and distilleries.' There is a strong anti-liquor movement among the Socialists. For more than three years the sale of beer in the great Krupp works has been forbidden. That and other big industries—steel works, shipyards and mines—supply tea free to their workers, or milk at cost, and forbid the sale of beer. At one huge plant the consumption of beer fell from 147,000 barrels in 1909 to 14,500 barrels in 1911. The Berlin railways have forbidden the use of beer during working hours, and similar action has been taken by the government railways of Baden and Alsace-Lorraine, where anti-alcohol placards are posted in all the stations."

CAN THE KAISER ELECT A PRESIDENT?

De-relect York plan-man-opposit-ple fa-rain ( that President Wilson's "impossible," the New York Herald volunteers this explanation. No matter whether Germans are justified in their opposition to Wilson or not, the similitude of the latter cannot be obtained.

How that Mr. Wilson will be elected because the German vote is against him? The American vote may be something to say about the election. We are aware that the professional Germans in the United States will vote the way Berlin may vote, but Berlin may not vote a majority of the Electors. Before the campaign the contest is likely to reduce to one simple issue: Can the Kaiser elect a President of the United States? Can the Kaiser elect a President of the United States? The Republican leaders are trying to evade this issue, but they will face it squarely before Election Day.

A staff correspondent of the New York Sun who was in Berlin during the recent diplomatic crisis between Germany and the United States, describes the German attitude toward the Presidential campaign in this fashion:

They are generally intensely interested in the Presidential nomination and the situation which is surprising, considering the few American papers in Germany and the garbled versions that the English papers give. Many of them agree absolutely with the Monroe doctrine theory that the German vote will decide the coming election and rather than re-elect the Germanophile wouldn't be so even at Roosevelt, in spite of his exaggerated hysterics and highly colored remarks about the Germans.

German leaders in the United States publicly advocate the nomination of Justice Hughes as their first choice, but there can be no doubt that Berlin prefers almost any Republican to President Wilson, or almost any Democrat for that matter. Having failed to control his Administration in the interest of Prussian autocracy, the German propaganda will now employ all its political power in the United States to defeat the President as a warning to future American statesmen that the welfare of the United States must not be placed above the welfare of the German Empire by the Government of this country.

It is possible that the Kaiser can dominate the election and say who will be President of the United States after March 4, 1917. The German propaganda here is extraordinarily active and resourceful, as frequent exposures by The World have proved and the Republican leaders have already shown their readiness to bargain with it. But the Kaiser cannot elect a President without the votes of millions of Americans. He cannot defeat a President without their votes. We do not believe he can deliver them.—New York World.

TWO PLAGUES.

The great white plague, tuberculosis, kills 100,000 persons a year; $8,000,000 was spent last year to destroy it and prevent its further spread. All are working to destroy it. Plague two, the liquor traffic, kills yearly from 500,000 to 700,000. Suppose that 200,000 doctors, 200,000 nurses, 50,000 grave diggers, 10,000 casket and coffin makers, should petition congress, petition legislatures, demand of politicians that tuberculosis must not be stamped out. Their trades, professions, prosperity demand that the plague be left at liberty, just licensed and regulated. A world-wide cry of horror would arise. But that is what we do with the worse plague of the liquor traffic.—Exchange.

AS LIQUOR SELLER SEES IT.

Being interviewed by a newspaper reporter on the subject of prohibition—one which is on everybody's tongue—Barney Grogan, a well-known Chicago liquor dealer, had this to say: "If they voted the wet-dry question in Chicago some Sunday morning the whole city would go dry. It's the men and women who are wet personally who will finally decide the issue. They are flopping about and will try it as an experiment. Maybe they will go back—maybe not. They don't know exactly where they are at—especially the morning after pay day. But the prohibition wave is getting bigger every day."

POINT WELL TAKEN.

Last year the Illinois legislature voted to found a colony for epileptics in a number of states these are already well established institutions. A home for these unfortunates is necessary, but why did we not likewise ten years ago establish a hospital for those wounded and maimed in the insane celebration of the Fourth of July? Instead, we instituted the same Fourth and almost completely did away in a decade with any need of medical care whatever for our celebrants. Alcohol as a drink must go. It is an economic absurdity.—Charles F. Read, M. D., Illinois Medical Journal.

MODEL FARM.

A great model farm on which no liquor shall be sold, and where instruction in stock raising and farming shall be given for the benefit of the public is provided for by the will of William R. Nelson, former editor and owner of the Kansas City Star. The clause relating to liquor reads, "No person shall, during the thirty-year period, sell on said lands any spirituous, malt or vinous liquors of any kind."

REDUCED TAXES.

The tax rate for Juniata county, Pa., has been reduced from 6 to 4 1/2 mills. As there was a decrease of $35,000 in the debt of the county during one year of curtailed license and two years of absolutely no license, the county commissioners felt they could afford to grant this reduction to the taxpayers. Juniata county maintains no almshouse and finds little use for one even under the present business depression.

Help Your Hens Produce Big Profits

WHAT THE FARMERS SAY

Central Point, Oregon. I am pleased and surprised at the results obtained from feeding the U. S. Poultry Food Tonic. I fed it to a flock of about 100 White Leghorns from which we were getting an average of 10 eggs per week. After feeding the tonic one week the supply had almost doubled. In one month the increase was almost 150 percent.

I am preparing to raise 500 laying hens this fall. I can use money in it with the aid of U. S. Poultry Tonic.

Baker, Pa. I have been feeding U. S. Poultry Food Tonic for the past three weeks and now get twice as many eggs as I did before. I fed it also to my stock U. S. Food Tonic with good results.

W. Barkley, Osterburg, Pa. I am finding for bill. Four Food has been doing wonderful work. We are getting practically every day. I had one man drive ten miles to my store to get the Food.

Geo F. Matchley, Hanover, Pa. Gentlemen—I have heard quite a lot about your Poultry Food Tonic, and expect to try some of it. Will you please send me some information along that line and how to use same.

Quickly matured pullets for winter laying—an abundance of eggs the year round; quickly grown roasters; finely developed birds—these come with a regular, systematic use of the U. S. Poultry Food Tonic.

U. S. Poultry Food Tonic

will insure you healthy hens that average 200 eggs, hardy chicks; thriving chicks that mature for early market. Send for letters to prove why no poultry raiser can afford to be without it. All the U. S. Stock preparations carry a money-back guarantee if they fail when used as directed. U. S. Louse Killer keeps poultry and stock free from all vermin. A fine disinfectant and deodorizer.

U. S. Stock Food Tonic

Prepared from nature's own remedies, roots, bark, herbs, etc., which animals used to get in a natural state but which now, in most cases, must be supplied in other forms. The U. S. Animal Regulator is a fine conditioner and worm powder. Begin using it on that ailing animal today. At your dealer's—or write us.

THE UNITED STATES FOOD CO. Pleasant City, Ohio, U. S. A.

Columbus, Ind. Dear Sirs—I have been feeding your U. S. Poultry Food for about one month and like it very much. My chicks are laying from 8 to 12 eggs a day when I started to feed your U. S. Food. Now I get from 20 to 24 eggs a day. Notting.

THEY ALSO PRAISE U. S. STOCK FOOD TONIC

Yellow Springs, Ohio. Dear Sirs—I have been experimenting on some brood sows with your U. S. Stock Food Tonic. Have the finest litters of pigs I ever had. Have not had a pig farrowed. Fed the sows before farrowing and think the powder is excellent for brood sows—makes big strong pigs.

Kenia, Ohio, R. D. 5. Dear Sirs—Having used the Stock Food Tonic must say it is giving best of results as my pigs are healthy and are looking better on a diet of Stock Food and warm skim milk than my neighbors corn fed pigs. Two months older. My pigs are in a field where there is no clover.

Joe A. McCampbell, Shelbyville, Ind. I received your Animal Regulator and find it is just what we need to expel worms. Will enclose check.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By H. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR APRIL 2

CONVERSION OF PAUL.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1, 21. (See also Gal. 1:11, 17; 1 Tim. 1:12, 17.)
GOLDEN TEXT—Faithful is the saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners: of whom I am chief.—1 Tim. 1:15 R. V.

No other man, save our Lord, has made such an impress upon history as the "Jew of Tarsus." Read carefully and repeatedly Acts, chapters 9:22, 23 and 26.

I. Saul the Man. (1) Physically. We know but little of Saul (see Ramsey, Conybeare and others), but we know from his labors that he was a man of tremendous vitality. Distant Damascus knew of his work (v. 13) and he himself testifies as to his activities (22:26-11). (2) Religiously he belonged to the strictest of the strict, the Pharisees (26:5-9-11). His anger at Jesus and the disciples was a consuming passion; literally, he "breathed threatening and slaughter" (v. 1). In all his violence he was conscientious, but yet he was awfully and terribly wrong, and what is more, his actions were not alone against the disciples but against Jesus (v. 5). (3) Politically Saul was perfectly legal in keeping the law and in his executions in the name of the law. Doubtless a member of the Sanhedrim (26:10), his hatred knew no pity; it included all who believed in Jesus. (4) Mentally this man transcends all who have ever followed Jesus. A man of intense convictions, a slave to a misdirected conscience, a titan of gigantic force and power once in the right channel.

II. Saul Saved. (1) This man was first humbled (v. 4). God put forth his hand to save the elect at Damascus, though he let Saul go a long way in his mad career. When he did act, it was "suddenly" and by means of the glory of Christ's resurrection (v. 7, 1 Cor. 15:8). Though it was "about noon," yet this glory outshone the brightness of the Syrian sun (ch. 26:13). Many who speak bold blasphemous words would also be cast down did they but really see his glory. (2) Saul is not left thus stricken, but it is called from above (v. 5). The question of Jesus (v. 4) was a most startling one and that, with the answer to his honest inquiry, convicted him of what must have been a lurking suspicion in his mind, viz.: that he was wrong and Jesus was truly the Messiah.

III. Saul Sent. The first evidence of the change wrought in Saul was (1) Obedience (v. 8). His companions heard but did not understand. There is no contradiction (v. 7, Acts 22:9), as this is the translation used elsewhere. Saul is given three days for meditation (v. 9), and he made good use of the time (2) Praying (v. 11). The result was (3) a vision (v. 12) (not only one, as there are others recorded) which resulted in changed individuals and nations. But his vision was (4) a thorough commission (v. 15). (a) to the Romans—"kings," (b) Greeks—"Gentiles," and (c) Jews—"children of Israel." Along with his vision and commission there was given enabling power, the endowment of the Spirit. The agent God chose for the bestowing was Ananias, not an official, merely "a certain disciple." The gift of the Spirit for power and service is not necessarily by the "laying on of hands." It came to Mr. Moody as he walked the streets of New York without earthly companions. But the other conditions were fulfilled, a repentant, prayerful man and a ready and obedient servant who, though filled with fear and protest (v. 13, 14) yet takes God at his word and goes at once to his task. As we read verses 17 and 18 we discover that this special filling of the Spirit was very evidently given to Saul before he received Christian baptism—read the order of events carefully.

IV. Saul Serving (1) At Damascus. Saul is given refreshment (he always lays emphasis upon the body) and straightway began to testify to the amazement of the people. From Gal. 1:15, 17 it is plain that he did not remain all of the time in the city, nor did he at once return to his friends in Jerusalem. This period is similar to the "hidden years at Nazareth" which our Lord spent ere he began his ministry.

It was a time of rest, reflection, analysis, meditation and formulation of his "gospel" (Rom. 3:19-28). (2) At Jerusalem. His testimony was distasteful at Damascus (v. 23-25) and so he sought Jerusalem, only there also to find distrust and rejection.

Then Barnabas did a great work for the Kingdom by showing his brotherly fellowship and trust and becoming sponsor for him to the early church.

It was not long ere he had to flee Jerusalem and finally return to his childhood home, Tarsus (v. 31).

Saul the Pharisee becomes a preacher of the Cross, the Master Empire-Builders.

Let this lesson be a trumpet call to the unconverted in your class and school. The same Jesus is calling today for other lives of service and testimony.

Give the Children their Chance

Can't expect the children to stand high in their classes unless they get their lessons done properly. And they can't do night study without proper light.

The best light to study by is that which beams from a Rayo Lamp filled with slow-burning Atlantic Rayolight Oil. It gleams soft, white and mellow—doesn't flicker. It's a wonderful light for studying. Won't strain the children's eyes and so they study the better. And they learn the quicker.

And you'll sew with less effort, and father will enjoy his paper the more if you keep the house generously lighted with Rayo Lamps.

Rayo Lamps are handsome—add to the appearance of any room. They're easily cleaned and last a lifetime. Your dealer can show you a full assortment of Rayo Lamps priced from $1.50 up. But to get the best light from a Rayo Lamp, you should burn

ATLANTIC Rayolight OIL

That's the kerosene that neither smokes nor smells, that burns brightly and yields a great heat, but always at a low cost; use it in every lamp in the house, in your heaters and in your oil stoves. Atlantic Rayolight Oil is the one kerosene you can ask for by name that never varies in quality. And so it is especially desirable for domestic purposes—for polishing furniture, for keeping away moths, for removing rust and the many other uses hundreds of housewives tell us they have found for it.

Ask your dealer for ATLANTIC RAYOLIGHT OIL by name, you can buy it at any store that displays the sign:

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY FROM A POOR MAN'S WEALTH BY JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

A poor man? Yes, I must confess—No wealth of gold do I possess; No pastures fine, with grazing kine, Nor fields of waving grain are mine; No foot of fat or fallow land Where rightfully my feet may stand. The while I claim it as my own—By deed and title, mine alone.

Ah, poor indeed! perhaps you say—But spare me your compassion, pray! A poor man? Yes, I must confess—No wealth of gold do I possess; No pastures fine, with grazing kine, Nor fields of waving grain are mine; But ah, my friend! I've wealth, no end! For millionaires might condescend To bend the knee and envy me This opulence of poverty.

Husband and Wife Both Saved From Suffering

I wish to tell you the good results myself and husband received from Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root. About eleven years ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe and was confined to my bed about eight weeks under the doctor's care. He pronounced my case kidney trouble and rheumatism and not receiving the results from the doctor's treatment I should have received, I decided to try Swamp Root. After taking several bottles of Swamp Root I was able to get up and attend my work. About a year later my husband was affected with a severe attack of kidney trouble and doctored for some time with the doctors and received no benefit. Knowing of the good I had received, he decided to try Swamp Root. His condition was such that he was confined to his bed and words cannot tell how he suffered, but after taking Swamp Root he was relieved so he could go on with his work without pain. I wish to heartily recommend Swamp Root to all persons afflicted with kidney and bladder troubles and you may publish this letter if you wish.

Yours truly,

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excited; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

"Yes," said the confirmed player, with tears in his eyes, "I do. If he hadn't got in the way I'd have made that hole in one a thousand times."

Solved.

"Now Johnny," said the teacher, "suppose you wanted to build a $1,000 house and had only $700, what would you do?"

"I s'pose I'd have to marry a girl worth $300," answered the young financier.—Kansas City Star.

FINE RECORD IN THE ORIENT

He Subdued More Tribes and Later Received Honors From Them, Because They Respected His Fair Dealing.

There are few officers in the army who possess so distinguished a record for bravery and efficient service as Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, who has been assigned the task of rounding up Francisco Villa and exterminating his band of outlaws, and there is, perhaps, no man so skillful in guerrilla warfare and Indian fighting.

With a brilliant record in the Philip- pines behind him—a record that gained for him a promotion from cap- tain to brigadier general over the heads of 862 officers of higher rank—and the memory of a great tragedy still fresh in his mind—the death of his wife and three children in a fire at the Presidio in San Francisco last August—General Pershing may be ex- pected to give a swift and sure ac- count of his command in the Mexican expedition.

Honored by Moros.

He has the distinction of being the only white man honored by a datto—a judge, counselor and chieftain—by the Moro tribes in the Philippines, an honor he gained by being able to gov- ern the tribes through their own laws and beliefs as translated from the Ko- ran.

He knows every foot of the country over which he will have to lead his men. He covered it all years ago in the memorable pursuit of Geronimo.

General Pershing was born in Linn county, Missouri, on October 13, 1860, and was appointed to West Point from that state. His career there was an honor both to himself and to that fa- mous institution, and he rose to the rank of senior cadet captain. He left the academy to become second lieu- tenant of the Sixth cavalry, then pur- suing Geronimo across the arid plains and hills of northern Mexico. Once his troop established a record of 130 miles in 47 hours.

In April, 1889, when in command of Troop A, at Fort Wingate, Pershing set out with ten men to rescue some horse thieves and cowboys from 100 armed and maddened Zuni Indians. Through a strategic maneuver he ob- tained the release of the prisoners, rounded up the Indians, and marched every last one of them captive into Fort Wingate. It was years before army men ceased to talk of this ex- ploit.

Takes Part in Sioux War.

Later, Pershing was transferred to the northwest, where he took part in the Sioux campaigns of 1890-1891. Later he commanded the Sioux scouts until detailed as military instructor at the University of Nebraska.

The declaration of war with Spain found him an instructor in tactics at West Point. He immediately asked to be sent to the front, and was as- signed to the Tenth cavalry, which did distinguished service at Santiago. After the war with Spain he was made a major and assistant adjutant gen- eral in the volunteer service, and was sent to the Philippines, where he com- manded an expeditionary force into the island of Mindanao, to restore or- der and subdue the Moros.

One of his most stubborn fights was in the capture of Pacolod, after his force had been surprised by a large band of Moros. One hundred Moros were killed and many wounded. Pershing's loss was three wounded.

Tells of Bacolod Battle.

At another place in the island sev- eral thousand Moros manned a chain of six forts, upon which several brass cannon had been mounted. Pershing reduced them all.

After that the Moros had respect for Pershing. They found he was a very different type of man to deal with than the vacillating Spaniards they had been used to. He was appointed military governor of the district around Iligan and soon won the con- fidence of the natives through a knowl- edge of the Koran which he had stud- ied.

The sultan of Sulu appointed him a datto an office almost as supreme in power as that of the sultan himself, and he came to be hailed as a "proph- et" and a "priest." The natives brought their troubles to him and he acted as judge.

Moros Respect Him.

An early evidence of the faith re- posed in him was when three children made orphans by the war were brought to him for disposition, although it had been the rule to sell such children into slavery. Pershing adopted the three children, a girl and two boys. Later the girl married at the age of twelve, one of the boys died, and the other proved an incorrigible.

Mrs. Pershing and three of their four children were suffocated last Au- gust in a fire at the Presidio. At that time it was said they might have been rescued had not the red tape of the army prevented the earlier arrival of fire apparatus from the Panama Pacific exposition, a short distance away. At that time General Pershing was de- tailed at El Paso.

ARMY WILL HAVE FREE HAND

Secretary Baker Says Commander of Forces Can Use Discretion in Hunting Bandits.

Washington, D. C.—Army men find cause for satisfaction over the definite assurance from Newton D. Baker, the new secretary of war, that the prose- cution of the campaign against Villa will be left entirely with the general in command of the expedition, who would not be subjected to too much advice from Washington.

The declaration that the state de- partment will rely largely on the dis- cretion of the military commander also, has done much to help the army enthusiasm.

This position was shown by Secre- tary Baker during a conference with Lindley M. Garrison, his predecessor, and Maj. Gen. Hugh Scott, chief of staff.

"The instructions given are quite ex- plicit," Mr. Baker said. "The army is to disperse the band or bands which attacked the village of Columbus."

"And how long is allowed for the job?"

"General Funston is authorized to stay until the forces of the Carranza government are able to restore and maintain order so far as these ban- dits are concerned."

TEST ALL THE DAIRY COWS

Wise Move for Farmer to Send Unprofitable Animals to Butcher—
Many Are Mere "Boarders."

If a cow is not well qualified for dairy purposes it does not pay to keep her for dairy purposes. There is econ- omy in testing all the members of dairy herds and sending the unprofit- able cows to the butcher.

Farmers in San Joaquin county, Cal., have organized for this purpose. Farm Adviser Lyons, who is directing the efforts of the organization, says: "The movement is one that means a great saving to farmers, and it is bound to spread over the entire state. It will probably be found that 20 and 25 per cent of the cows in the average herd are not paying for their keep. The dairyman will make money by selling these cows for beef."

ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN.

If the results of drinking were pur- ly personal, the complaints of the wets that antil liquor forces are trying to in- terfere with the personal liberty of drinkers might carry with some force, but drink is sold on the installment plan. The first payment is made when you get the drink, the others when you get the ink gets you.—Maj. Dan Morris (Former Counsel for Inter- ests).

WHERE THE MONEY WENT

By GEORGE MUNSON.

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman)

"I believe in you, Jim," Myra had said, and she was the only member of the bank staff that did.

The situation was this: Jim Flem- ing's accounts were three thousand dollars short at the end of the day. Three bills of the denomination of a thousand dollars apiece were missing. Fleming said that he had put them in the drawer. But they were not in the drawer, and could not be found.

The president accepted Fleming's explanation. Fleming retained his po- sition in the bank as assistant paying teller. He was earning seven hundred and fifty a year.

Jim not only retained his position but was promoted to be paying teller the second year—still at seven hun- dred and fifty. Ordinarily the position would have started at twelve hundred and fifty. Then Myra, the manager's stenographer, and Jim could have got married. Now marriage was impos- sible. The fellows in the bank grinned and wondered where Jim had "salted" the money away.

Old Moss, the president, was as hard as nails. He never let up on a man. He had seen at once Fleming's idea and determined to checkmate the man whom he regarded as a brazen thief. Out of his own pocket he paid the hire of the detectives for the first six months, but at the annual meeting it was decided to spend the money which would normally have gone to Jim's salary in having him watched.

Year after year the watch kept up. Jim knew about it. It was impossible for him not to know.

"With that fellow's genius for secrecy he would make a first-rate politician or criminal," said old Moss grimly, at the second annual meeting of the directors.

"Talent misapplied," growled the manager. "My stenographer is still en- gaged to him."

"She'll be too old to marry him be- fore he gets a raise," growled Moss. "And if they do marry, we'll know where the money comes from."

Five, six, seven years passed. The detectives were less obtrusive now, but they still followed Jim Fleming. He was still liable to return home to find that someone had tampered with his desk or trunk.

"Jim, dear, I have saved up a thou- sand dollars," said Myra one day. "Let us be married anyway."

He shook his head grimly. He would not marry her until the bank had of- ficially pronounced the stain upon his character wiped away. He had often urged Myra to release him.

"I'll stand by you till the end, dear," she answered.

By this time the directors had come to waver in their opinion of Jim. Traps had been laid for him, opportunities placed in his way. He evaded them or did not seem to recognize them. He still remained paying teller. His salary should have been seventeen hun- dred and fifty. The bank was making a thousand a year out of him. Half that money went to the detective agency, but still Jim had almost made up the missing money.

The town was growing. At last it was decided to build a new bank. It had outgrown its limited premises. A magnificent structure of marble was going up. New desks and counters had already been installed, and on the day when the papers and money were removed the old fixtures would be turned over to the junk man.

Everything was ready at last. The manager was superintending the re- moval of the money. Old Moss stood grimly by, watching the ceremony. Jim opened his drawer, which he had pulled out and closed so many thou- sands of times during the course of his service in the bank. He took out the bills and packages of coins and hand- ed them to the manager, who counted them and placed them in the safe, which stood in the main office, ready for removal.

The drawer had stuck—for the first time in all those years. Jim pulled it out half way. It would come out no farther.

Moss, seeing him tugging, strolled up. The manager was looking at him. From her seat at her typewriter, Jim saw Myra looking at him. He tugged and tugged, and the drawer would not budge.

Suddenly he was lying upon his back, with the empty, broken drawer upon his chest, and the old counter broken into half a dozen pieces.

Suddenly the manager uttered an ex- clamation and stooped down. From a crevice he extracted three—three brand new thousand dollar bills. He held them up significantly. Moss came for- ward. Jim got up and stood staring at them speechlessly. Then, with a cry, Myra ran from her place and flung her arms round Jim and stood facing them all with love and defiance upon her face.

It was easy to see what had hap- pened. The three bills had slipped back when the drawer was opened, and had lodged at the back in a crevice of the counter. Jim's hands must have wandered above them a score of times a day, and he had never guessed.

Jim felt them clap him on the back. Moss took his hands in his.

"Jim," he gulped, "I want to speak to you as soon as I can see you, about—about your salary."

Jim hardly heard. He was looking into Myra's eyes, and they both want- ed desperately to speak to each other just then—about a home.

They have now on display at their garage some interesting examples of this, "car of true democracy", the car of the people, built "by the people and for the people". The beautiful illustrations to be found in all the current magazines featuring the perfection, beauty, utility and desirability of this popular machine, are too well known to be commented upon. What the reader should be told is, that at the Union Garage will now be found a skilled mechanic, ready to give intelligent attention to all automobile needs. The automobile owners and operators of Bedford County will find here friends who are interested in their pleasure, comfort and safety, and who will render them reasonable and efficient service toward the maintenance and up keeping of their machinery. Our aim is to "speed the traveler on his way", and also to speed him on his way toward the Union Garage, when for some mysterious reason the wheels cease to revolve. Let us solve the mystery for you and supply the power and lubricant.
